MANCHESTER AND VICINITY.

Escape from Jail-Remarkable Case .-Manchester is determined not to be outdone by her metropolitan neighbors. Early yesterday morning City-Sergeant Fitzgerald discovered that John Jones, alias John Lowis, alias Marshall Stevens, bad escaped some time during the night. Stevens (as he is generally called) escaped by burning out a space in the floor eight by eleven and a half inches. The only instrument used was a small piece of wire about eight inches long. This was heated in the stove, and the work must have been tedious. After burning around the planks he took them out, making as neat a job as if the planks had been sawed out. Stevens weighs some one hundred and sixty pounds, and the space through which he made his exit was a very small one. After getting the hole through, Stevens fastened a piece of rope to a broom, placed the broom across the aperture, and let himself down to the floor of the Alert engine-room, from which he escaped easily, one of the doors being unlocked. The only other prisoner in the male department of the jail was Royall Haxall, and he was sound asleep at the time. Stevens was under indictment for stealing a horse from Mrs. Thomas Vaden, and barness from David Jarvis. In the cell occupied by the accused, he had removed a quantity of bricks and plaster, but it is in the machines were not forthcoming. In supposed, fearing detection if escape was fact, they were "fiat" machines. There supposed, fearing detection it escape was attempted that way, determined on the was also a good deal of borrowing of money other plan. Stevens was not locked in the cell, because the front room is considered the safer of the two. Since the recent attempted robberies the police have been watching in various suspected localities, and the Advocate has gradually faded away, it is impossible for them to be on duty near the jall for any length of time. Sergeant Fitzgerald elsewhere offers a reward for the apprehension of the escaped prisoner.

The Fire Department-Election of Officers .- The annual meeting of the Manchester Fire Department was held Wednesday night. The following officers of Alert Fire Company were reelected: J. J. Wirt, captain; Philip Browder and A. C. Jones, assistants; James A. Lipscombe, secretary; R. P. Smith, treasurer; George F. Abbott and William Fowler, pipemen; Frank J. Sampson, A. C. Jones, and John T. Ashworth, trustees; L. B. Whitworth, sergeantat-arms; B. A. Riggins, janitor. George T. Green was elected captain of the hook-andladder truck. The following gentlemen were recommended to the City Council for appointment: A. A. Waugh, chief engineer, and Henry A. Jordan and J. S. Moles (Mike), wardens. The annual supper of the Department will take place before Christmas at Firemen's Hall. Although they have but little encouragement, our firemen seem determined to keep up their organization, and to do all in their power to protect the property of their fellow-citizens. The company freely carries out its motto-" When duty calls 'tis ours

The Beethoven Musicale.-The first musicale of the Beethoven Association was given at Odd-Fellows' Hall September 6th. The one to be given to-night would, in the regular order, have been the fourteenth, but in consequence of the inclement weather and other unavoidable causes it is in reality the eleventh. For the occasion the following attractive programme has been arranged: 1, chorus (thirty voices); 2, duet, Mrs. A. C. Harding and Miss Rosa Thomas; 3, glee, five ladies and five gentlemen; 4, solo, Mrs. Emmett Gregory; 5, duet, Miss Sue Thomas and Mr. A. C. The City Council .- The regular semimonthly meeting of the City Council will be held to-night at 71 o'clock. The Council has not had a meeting since November 1st. It is now an accepted scientific doctrine that all the various forces manifested in naforce is, therefore, transmutable into another. Edison's electric light is simply a other. Edi-on's electric light is simply a machine for converting the motion of a steam-engine into electric force, and then into light. The story of a newspaper fraud and failure is going the rounds. The journal in question was called the Advocate, was issued New York, and was the organ of the Greenbackers when the party was bloomng, as some of our readers may know to their cost. The representations of its prorictor were that during the late campaign t reached a circulation of 700,000 copies weekly. That statement is probably a huge exaggeration, but it really did do a thriving business for a while. There was very much of the "fiat" idea in its management, which was perfectly in consonance with the notions it preached. It was furnished at first for fifty, and then for twenty-five cents per year, which did not cover the cost of the paper on which it was printed. But the astute owners had another chance for their remuneration. They proposed to sell sewing-machines to subscribers at a much-reduced price, but when the money was sent from "the friends of the cause," Mr. Peter Cooper having been muleted to the tune of several thousands. Since a withering blast blew upon the Greenbackers at the polls, and is now moribund, while letters are pouring in to know what has become of those sewing-machines. The organ can scarcely be resuscitated, unless the moneyed inflationists, like Mr. Cooper or General Butler, supply it with life-blood again .- Ballimore American.
